

Garrido's attorney speaks out after suspect sends letter to TV station

By KCRA.com

PLACERVILLE – Phillip Garrido's attorney broke her silence Thursday, outlining the sensitive nature of the case and her client's communication with KCRA 3.

Public Defender Susan Gellman had so far refused all requests for interviews about a case that's drawn worldwide attention.

Gellman's client is accused of kidnapping Jaycee Lee Dugard from her home near Lake Tahoe in 1991, then keeping her in a backyard compound and fathering two children with her.
