

Tahoe heating bills expected to be less

Reno Gazette-Journal

For people worried about winter heating bills, good news is arriving in time for the cold weather.

People using natural gas this winter could save $105 compared with last year, and propane users will get even bigger savings, the government said. Households that use heating oil or electric heat also are expected to spend less during the heating season.

In Northern Nevada, NV Energy customers will see lower bills after state utility regulators last month approved cuts in electricity and natural gas rates, effective Oct. 1.
