

Anderson signs 3-year contract with Billabong

By Mike Lewis, Transworld Business

Snowboarder Jamie Anderson of South Lake Tahoe will be rocking Billabong for at least another three years. The brand announced this week that it had signed a three-year contract extension with Anderson, one of the sport's top women riders.

"We are thrilled to be continuing our support of Jamie," said Candy Harris, Billabong Brand Director, "she has become a true icon for the sport and we know the future holds no limit to her accomplishments."

"It feels amazing to sign with Billabong for another three years, and I'm so proud to work with such a great company," said Anderson. "I'm excited about expanding the Jamie Anderson Collection and couldn't be happier about the relationship."

Read the whole story