

Search and rescue training brings mega-helicopters to Tahoe

Don't be alarmed if you see and hear Blackhawk helicopters today. It's all in the name of training.

A big search and rescue training event is going on Sunday at Vikingsholm where medics will be working as though there are victims on the cliff.

The public will not be allowed in the area.

– Lake Tahoe News staff report