

Gaming revenue drops in Stateline, throughout Nevada

After four straight months of posting a gain, year-over-year revenue at Stateline casinos went in the other direction.

South Shore casinos, according to data released Thursday by the Nevada Gaming Control Board, collected $13 million in revenue in March, a decline of 14 percent from 2011.

The entire state saw revenue drop in March. The $855 million in revenue is 11 percent less than what was recorded a year ago.
