

Reno woman located unharmed

Updated: Jan. 2 8:05pm

South Lake Tahoe police at about 8pm Jan. 2 said Chantel Good of Reno had been located.

She was not injured and she had not been abducted.

--

South Lake Tahoe police officers are looking for a missing Reno woman.

Chantel Good, 21, was reported missing on Jan. 1.

Chantel
Good

According to police officials, friends said they dropped Good off in front of the Heavenly Village and have not heard from her since.

A flyer says she is 5-foot-4, was last wearing brown boots, a blue dress with a flower print and a cream-colored pullover sweater.

It is not known if there is any connection between Good and Alyssa Byrne, who went missing from the South Shore early New Year's Day.

– Lake Tahoe News staff report