

Ski company to offer MLB team logos as topsheets

By Matt Hansen, Powder

The month of October holds many promises. Heroes are made under Friday night lights. Hunters march into the woods for meat, others harvest vegetables from the garden. It's the best time of year to go fishing, and the best excuse to dress up and howl at the moon.

It's also the beginning of ski season, as we saw last Friday with the opening of Colorado's A-Basin. The 10th month also means it's time for the Fall Classic.

To help celebrate, Park City-based RAMP Sports has developed a licensing deal with Major League Baseball to provide topsheets sporting the colors and logos of all 30 teams.

Read the whole story