

Guldemond takes Dew Tour title

By USSA

BRECKENRIDGE, Colo. – On the final day of competition at the 10th annual Dew Tour, veteran slopestyle rider Chas Guldemond (Reno) walked away with the second Dew Tour win of his career. Landing a solid first run with his brand new switch double wildcat and three double cork 1080s, Guldemond would prove to be unbeatable posting a 92 score after his first run.

Canadian Sebastien Toutant, put together a solid second run with back-to-back double cork 1080s that moved him into second just in front of fellow Canadian Tyler Nicholson.

Winning run: 270 onto the Nixon 20+ handrail, 450 off the Mountain Dew handrail, switch double wildcat, switch backside double 1080, cab 270 onto Toyota rainbow rail, cab double 1260, backside double 1080.

U.S. Snowboarding athletes have earned six of the twelve podium spots at the 2014 Dew Tour with Taylor Gold, Kelly Clark, Jamie Anderson and Guldemond winning their events.
