

EDSO going to the people to talk facilities

El Dorado County Sheriff John D'Agostini is planning to have town hall style meetings throughout the county in each of the supervisor districts.

The topic of the meetings will be the new sheriff's office facility on the West Slope. D'Agostini will be discussing details of the building: progress, location and representatives from the local architectural firm, Arch Nexus, will also be present. The sheriff is looking for the public's feedback and input on the project and the design of the building.

Our current office was built in 1971. The department has outgrown the facility in size and functionality.
