

Nevada side of Heavenly without power

A power outage in Nevada is affecting lift operations at Heavenly Mountain Resort.

NV Energy said an issue on Kingsbury Grade has 389 customers without power. There is no estimate of when the power will be restored.

“The guys are working on the line right now. I’m sure it was weather related, but I’m not sure what happened,” Faye Anderson with NV Energy told Lake Tahoe News.

The tram and Gunbarrel chairlift at the California base area are the only ways to access Heavenly this morning.

“We have a power challenge right now on the Nevada side,” Coop Cooper with Heavenly told Lake Tahoe News. The gondola is also affected by the outage.

All California lifts are operational Jan. 30 except Sky, which is on wind hold.

– Lake Tahoe News staff report