

Exclusive development finally replacing trailers

By Benjamin Spillman, Reno Gazette-Journal

STATELINE – Crumbling pavement and some unoccupied mobile homes are among the reminders of what used to occupy the site of the future Tahoe Beach Club.

But the developers, politicians and local business leaders on the beach in Stateline Monday afternoon weren't there to pick through remnants of what used to be. The dignitaries, including Nevada Gov. Brian Sandoval, were looking out toward Lake Tahoe and what they envisioned for the future of the 20-acre, lakefront property.

The club, according to developers and planning agency staff, would be the first new, full-ownership lakefront homes on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe in about 30 years, although there have been time-share developments in that time.
