

Nev. gaming panel urges new rules on e-sports

By Richard N. Velotta, Las Vegas Review-Journal

It won't be long before people will be able to bet on teams competing against each other when they play video games.

Teams also will be able to bet against each other in a modified poker-style format in which the house will rake a percentage of the head-to-head bets.

But bettors will have to wait a little longer – maybe forever – before they will be able to play daily fantasy sports games in casinos.

Read the whole story