

Future of EDC courthouse being decided

By Ben van der Meer, Sacramento Business Journal

Placerville is taking feedback about reuse options for the El Dorado County courthouse in the city's downtown.

On the city's website and in utility bills, a survey lists several options, including a visual/performing arts center, public market, hotel and college campus extension. There are 11 choices, including one for those taking the survey to suggest their own ideas.

Placerville City Manager Cleve Morris said the survey results will be part of an ongoing study by a blue ribbon committee to figure out the best use.

Read the whole story