

Home mail delivery interrupted by snow

Mail may not be coming on Jan. 23. Photo/LTN

Not everyone is going to get mail on Monday.

There will be no home deliver in the unincorporated area of El Dorado County in the basin.

Carriers will try to reach people in the city limits, but there are no guarantee. Safety is the priority.

Residents are being asked to clear their boxes and the snow piled around them so carriers can get there without needing to get out of their vehicles.

– Lake Tahoe News staff report