

Weather creating dangerous fire conditions

By Marcella Corona, Reno Gazette-Journal

The National Weather Service issued a red flag warning for the Reno area.

As temperatures rise, the winds will pick up and low humidity will continue into Tuesday.

“The winds are so strong that any fire currently going will have a chance to spread rapidly, which is not good,” meteorologist Brian O’Hara said Sunday.

Read the whole story