

Nev. group files complaint over Incline public records

By Sean Whaley, Las Vegas Review-Journal

A Nevada think tank has filed a complaint with the state Attorney General's Office over a Lake Tahoe-area government's failure to follow the state public records law.

The Nevada Policy Research Institute filed the complaint against the Incline Village General Improvement District after discovering last week that an official with the agency allegedly acknowledged destroying or concealing public records as a matter of policy, a violation of state law.
