

Nevada 3rd most popular state for movers

By Jason Hidalgo, Reno Gazette-Journal

Nevada is moving up as a popular destination for folks looking to, well, make a move.

The Silver State ranked among the top places in the nation that posted a higher rate of people moving in versus people moving out last year, according to separate reports from two moving companies.

In one of the studies, Washoe County posted a higher rate of inbound relocations than the state as a whole. Reno-Sparks is also outpacing the nation for its influx of younger people moving into the area in the last decade, according to an analysis from UNR.
