

Solar required for new Calif. homes starting in 2020

By Tony Bizjak, Sacramento Bee

California became the first state in the country Wednesday to require that new homes have solar panels on their roofs.

The mandate, which takes effect in 2020, won unanimous approval of the California Energy Commission. One commissioner predicted the “green” lifestyle regulation will eventually go national.

Read the whole story