

Increasing number in Calif. looking to move

By Liz Kreutz, ABC-10

While many people can't imagine themselves living anyway other than the Golden State, research shows an increasing number of Californians may be looking to move away.

According to studies done by real estate sites Realtor.com and Redfin.com, the housing crisis in California is driving people to search for homes outside the state.

So where are people looking? Realtor.com says most people are searching in Phoenix, Las Vegas and Prescott, Ariz. Redfin.com also say many people searching in Seattle.

Read the whole story