

Ski report: The gift of sun and powder

Get up and enjoy some of the best holiday conditions offered in years.

And stay on the trails.

Here is the Dec. 24 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Powder, powder, powder

Grab the fat boards – powder is everywhere.

Remember to ski with a buddy, especially going off-piste.

Here is the Dec. 23 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Storm conditions causing closures

The storm has arrived. The wind is affecting upper lift operations, causing lift and resort closures. Kirkwood is closed for the day. Call ahead. Here is the Dec. 22 ski report. – Curtis Fong

Ski report: Powder days are coming

The storm is coming and the snow will be here in feet.

The wind is here and is affecting lift operations.

Here is the Dec. 21 ski report.

Ski report: Hang on, it's windy

Wind will be a problem for lifts at higher elevations. Some chairlifts at Heavenly and Kirkwood are starting off on wind hold this morning.

A storm is on its way.

Here is the Dec. 20 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Brief break between storms

Stop reading and get out on the slopes. Enjoy the blue sky today in between storms.

Here is the Dec. 19 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Stay on open trails

A winter weather advisory is posted until noon. Another 2 to 4 inches of snow above 7,000 feet could fall.

There are great conditions with fresh powder through Lake Tahoe. But remember to stay on open runs only.

Here is the Dec. 18 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Freshies throughout the day

A winter storm warning is in effect for the entire ski day in Lake Tahoe.

Here is the Dec. 17 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Snow in the forecast

Winds could impact operation of upper mountain lifts by this afternoon.

More snow is predicted throughout the day.

Here is the Dec. 16 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Season is just getting better

Get out today to experience the best conditions of the season.

Resorts continue to open terrain.

Here is the Dec. 15 ski report.

– Curtis Fong