

Ski report: Time for a snow dance

Keep your fingers crossed for measurable snow as these series of storms pass through.

Conditions are still very good on the slopes with machine groomed corduroy and spring conditions.

Here is the March 27 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Sun is going away

Unsettled weather will be moving through the area in the next few days with a chance of snow in the higher elevations.

Wind could be a factor today on the upper lifts.

Here is the March 26 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Weeks of spring skiing to be had

Three to four weeks of spring skiing are left at most resorts.

Here is the March 25 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Spring is in the air

The slopes are turning to spring conditions with areas of firm packed snow softening with the daytime temperatures.

Here is the March 24 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Plenty of events

It's not just about the skiing. So many resorts are having special events this weekend.

Here is the March 23 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Conditions are good

A great spring day to enjoy winter conditions.

Here is the March 22 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: First chair gets powder

Spring brings fresh snow to Tahoe's slopes.

Avalanche danger is considerable, according to the Sierra Avalanche Center. Don't ski out of bounds.

Here is the March 21 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: It's wet outside

It's a Gore-Tex kind of day. There is fresh snow in the upper elevations and mixed precip down below.

Wind may be an issue for upper lifts.

Here is the March 20 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Weather is changing

A change in weather is coming. Weather gurus are calling for rain and snow above 7,000 feet.

Here is the March 19 ski report.

– Curtis Fong

Ski report: Lots of sun today

Spring conditions continue. Keep your fingers crossed for snow Tuesday into Wednesday.

Here is the March 18 ski report.

– Curtis Fong