30 years ago – Tahoe was

sliding away

Two mudslides and two landslides in April-May 1983 impacted the Lake Tahoe Basin. The two slides on Highway 50 virtually isolated tourism-driven South Lake Tahoe for months, causing some businesses to close. This old VHS tape is Tad Dunbar reporting on KOL0-TV Reno detailing all four slides.

Bill Kingman of South Lake Tahoe compiled this footage.

'Farewell to Manzanar' author

"Farewell to Manzanar" author Jeanne Houston talks May 14 in South Lake Tahoe about her experience in the internment camp during World War II.

Chips the bobcat

During the Chips Fire on the Plumas National Forest, a baby bobcat was orphaned. While the Forest Service restored the forest, the bobcat then known as Chips, recovered at Lake Tahoe Wildlife Care. Recently, Chips was returned to the wild.

Happy Mother's Day

"I am a wife, a mother, a life-long reader, wanderer, and daydreamer.

"When my two sons were small, I constantly had to remind myself: if I raced through my life, I'd miss it. I wanted time to enjoy my children as children, time to play games on the floor, daydream, and read aloud at bedtime. Writing is still a way to stay in touch with my wiser self, a chance to pause each day and make sure I'm appreciating life as we are living it – right here, right now."
